I am not sure what to say about this one folks. I liked the game from start to finish... in under an hour. Games like this one that have a large selection of guns and perks, (roguelikes), Live and die on the feeling of just-one-more-try-ness that they provide, and i was already getting that special feeling when all of a sudden the game credits rolled in victory. maybe i got lucky, and others will have a longer experience. It is strange to think that if i had only died on that last boss instead of killing it i would have left with a far more positive view on the game not knowing how many runs i might expect to have. bottom line, it was too short for me.. FINALLY. I've been able to buy this game... And i love it! It might need even more randomness! But when is there enough randomness? Great job!. I'm not a fan of fantasy games, but this one is good.

There is a lot of stuff to do here, from managing cities under your control to discovering dungeons and relics.

Shadow Magic also comes with a random map generator, a campaign and a custom campaign generator.

This game is more complex than I thought: in fact, I had to go through all the tutorial scenarios.

Edit:

I cannot believe how good this game is.

I've put a fair amount of hours into it (offline) and I can tell you, without any hesitation, that Shadow Magic is one of the best games ever made.

The atmosphere is sublime, the random map generator is perfect (every single scenario will feel totally different), the AI plays incredibly well (and cheats a lot) and it is ready to exchange spells or forge alliances.

You have to carefully plan every single move, otherwise you will be destroyed. This is not a game you can play casually at harder difficulties (king or emperor).

Buy Shadow Magic immediately if you're looking for a deep strategy game.. This game has a lot of content cards, abilities, playstyles and mechanics, that makes it interesting but these are minimal or not at all explained which makes it really hard to get into it - at some point I just lost every fight and had no money to get new cards....

I imagine this is really a good card game, there are nearly no restrictions to what you can play and I bet if you think deep into the theory you can craft many great decks out of it. But again this will take a long time.

In the campaign or versus duels you will win by sure chance, some cards are just crazy good and hard to fight against. Have them on your hand you win. Are they against you you probably lose. Especially as it seems you can't swap out cards. Play a direct damage card vs an enemy with nearly no damage and wait until you win 2 rounds later.. cute and oddly profound. highly recommend. A fun puzzle(-ish) game! Excellent ambient soundtrack and gameplay that really does reward taking it slow and figuring out how to approach each stage. I cannot hate anything that's effectively catering to my love of clever thinking-man's titles.. This game...

This game.. First review yay!

This is a pretty original game concept which doesn't has as much attention as it should of and I do like the idea of the game. The gameplay is fun and challenging and is similar to other hardcore platformers: Super meat boy and n++

In this game you're a red square with eyes (we should name him Frank) and you have to get to the goal (green), but in the way are objects: grill, walls, lava and more that you can't pass without switching the dimension. When you press Z you are in a altered dimension where one or two to the whole level is altered. There are various mechanics when you are playing the levels: lasers and one-way blocks. The blocks can make a confusing puzzle or a insane challenge. There is 90 levels to explore. There is even a whole entire level editor and a workshop to explore (It's pretty insane).

Once you beat all of the levels (or not I don't control your life), there are stars that are quite difficult. The postitions of the stars are in places that can make you think, complete the level again or generally challenge you. For the times for me it feels like you need to be pixel perfect on some of them (but of course you don't have to).

Overall this is a amazing game which is definitely worth the \u00a36.99 (\u00a39.99 for anywhere else) queued for 8 days straight with no matches. doesnt even go all the way with the uncensored patch smh my head. You click on anime girls' heads as quickly as you can before the timer runs out, whilst you listen to music that makes you want to shoot yourself.

That's it.

Took me 6 minutes to finish it.. the game is super good recommend it for who loves attack on titan and if you get a lot of good things in the game its make the game more fun and the movement is so good. it was worth the money.. Easy to use, small download, stable and works well.

Free trial version available on the developers web site.

will take almost any video but also comes with correction presets for all the popular brands of action cameras and their generic clones and you can easily create profiles for any camera and lens you use. (Built-in profiles listed at the end of the review).

As there are a lack of reviews for this little app I thought I'd add my two-cents.

Probably best right away to answer the three obvious questions:

1. Why would you want this when you can get free video tools which do the same?
2. Do you lose quality?
3. Why use a fisheye in the first place?

1. Why buy it at all?

eg. If you use a GoPro they have their own dedicated app. There is a vast difference in the fisheye effect between the hero2 and 3, and until they and the other makers come to their senses and include the fisheye correction apps in-camera for some people it's still easier to pick up one pocket-change app like this on steam than download various other apps and plugins for Vegas or Adobe or whatever video editing suite you use.

2. Does it distort?

Yes, and No. It alters the video you put in, but that video has already been distorted into a fisheye which makes it a hard one to answer. its like asking someone if he still beats his wife, whatever answer he gives is going to sound dubious.

Just look on it as swapping one type of distortion for another and getting the choice of the one which you like the best (or which is the least distracting).

For example Take a look at any panned video image on in a real TV programme, discovery channel make huge use of fisheye action cameras, half the time the edges have been corrected in the same way this programme works, but you barely noticed at all because you were looking in the centre. If that had been a rounded fisheye it would have distracted you from what was going on in the centre at first. That's about all there is to it. If you do notice the blurry edge at all, it's far less distracting than the fisheye effect.

3. Why use a fisheye lens at all?

Soon there will be some troll, usually the one leaving a thumbs down as a negative review of a review (the irony of that) asking us all why we use fisheye lenses in the first place. On behalf of all of us who do use action cameras with fisheye lenses, I think I'm speaking for us all in saying get a life, there is nothing for you here. If you don't know why you sometimes need fisheye correction, then why are you reading a review about a fisheye correction app anyway? If you have popped in to troll us for buying an app that other various apps do for free, may I refer you to the the previous two paragraphs above, indicating that the review is for helping people decide whether the software is any good, and not inviting judgement of our video equipment choices, which you probably haven't read anyway, before you jog on.

Built-in profiles currently include: GoPro Hero3, Hero3+, Hero4 & Hero4 Session, Hero5 Black & Hero5 Session, Sony HDR-AS100V, HDR-AS50, HDR-CX220, FDR-X1000V, Drift HD Ghost, SJCAM SJ4000 & SJ 5000, DJI Phantom 3 & Zenmuse X3, Garmin VIRB, Parrot Bebop 2, Rollei 6S, Rollei 410, Zoom Q8, GitUp Git2, Mobius ActionCam (lenses A, C2), Yi 4K.. ive been searching for this game for 6 years after playing the demo and i forgot all about it

Creatifriends!

Happy new year! It's time for R9. Since we took the holidays off, this is going to be on the lighter side as far as releases go. There's only one new feature -- though it's an often requested one -- key re-mapping.

But there are also a bunch of improvements and bug fixes. For example, one improvement, suggested by the community: visitors will no longer be harmed by mobs. In fact, most of the additions and fixes in this update came from player suggestions and bug reports. We really do appreciate all the help you guys give us. Keep it coming!
